STEPHEN A. DOUGLASS addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting at Bellerville on Saturday.

We have heard John Oberly make more than one good extemporaneous speech—better than his prepared effort of Saturday. But probably he could not trust himself to speak off-hand in behalf of a party which, in 1872, he thought ought to be "put under ground without delay."

JUDGE SWAYNE, who is now at Sharon Springs, writes that the story in the New York World, concerning his alleged remark about General Garfield and the DeGolyer case, is "an entire fabrication and without a particle of truth to sustain it." The judge remarks, "General Garfield is a personal friend of mine, and I have the highest confidence in his integrity."

The Review of this morning has this item at the head of its editorial column: "It is said that Ex-Secretary Bristow will vote for Hancock."

The leader of the Democratic managers to "claim everything" is too well acquainted with the rank and file to justify the expectation that the Review will publish Gen. Bristow's denial of this claim—a denial made as long ago as last Thursday, and which our neighbor must have seen before he penned his article. The following press dispatch appeared in the papers of Friday:

The attention of Gen. Bristow, who is at the Pacific House, White Mountain, having to-day been called by telegraph to the printed statement that he had declined to stand work and vote for Gen. Hancock, he telegraphs as follows:

President Hancock, N. H., July 22.—The statement is unauthorized and untrue.

B. H. BIRKOW.

The democratic party in Vermont will make a gallant fight, as persistent and unsuccessful as in the day when John G. Dix was a perennial candidate. The democratic party in Vermont has nominated itself for governor, and by an active campaign is likely to bring out the whole voting strength of the party. This devotion to defeat is as tenacious in Vermont as in Iowa, though the party of defeat in Iowa is something more numerous than the democrats of the Green Mountains.—Chicago Times.

GALVESTON is suffering great mortality among her juvenile population. Wednesday, a little son of Hon. A. C. Mason and the youngest son of Steve Smith were interred at Mt. Hope Cemetery. Thursday, two little children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gandy were buried in the same cemetery, having died within a few hours of each other of diphtheria. These made their little ones deposited in the cemetery within one week.

LIKE THE REST OF THEM.

In his speech at the court house on Saturday Mr. Oberly paid special attention to the national election laws, and asserted that they ought to be repealed. He gave his hearers what he alleged to be the substance of the objectionable part of the election laws, and in order that we do him no injustice on this point we quote from the Review of this morning the following portion of its synoptical report of his speech: "The law also provides that, in such a case, any two citizens may petition the U. S. marshal for, and obtain any number of special deputies for each of the election districts of such cities. And those deputies may, without legal process, on the day of the election, arrest anyone suspected of an intention to vote illegally." Mr. Oberly dwelt particularly upon this alleged right of deputy marshals to "arrest anyone suspected of an intention to vote illegally," and it was really the main point of his whole speech. In order to show how little dependence is to be placed in the assertions of Democratic orators—even when the orator is a man of more than ordinary character for fairness, as Mr. Oberly is generally supposed to be—we give below the entire section of the election law defining the duties of United States marshals and their general and special deputies:

SEC. 222. The marshal and his general deputies, and such special deputies shall keep the peace, and support and protect the supervisors of election in the discharge of their duties, preserve order at such places of registration and at such polls, prevent fraudulent registration and fraudulent voting theretofore, or fraudulent conduct on the part of any officer of election, and immediately, either at the place of registration or polling place, or elsewhere, and either before or after registering or voting, to arrest and take into custody, with or without process, any person who commits, or attempts or offers to commit, any of the acts or offenses prohibited herein, or who commits any offense against the laws of the United States; but no person shall be arrested without process for any offense not committed in the presence of the marshal or his general or special deputies, or either of them, or of the supervisors of election or either of them, and for the purposes of arrest or the preservation of the peace, the supervisors of election shall, in the absence of the marshal's deputies, or if required to assist such deputies, have the same duties and powers as deputy marshals; nor shall any person, on the day of such election, be arrested without process for any offense committed on the day of registration.

If the section we have quoted contains any authority to make arrests upon suspicion we have been unable to discover it. What shall be said of a political party which can find no better argument to offer the public than a promise to repeal laws which do not exist? What shall be said of a man who seeks to overthrow the opposite party by charging up to it the responsibility for passing obnoxious laws which cannot be found on the statute book? Mr. Oberly cannot plead ignorance on this matter; he pretended to quote law which he knew was not law. He is no ignoramus; he knows what the election laws contain as well as anybody. He tried to mislead his hearers, whom he presumed to be unacquainted with the letter of the law, and he repeatedly referred to the alleged duty of the deputy marshals to arrest upon suspicion, thus seeking to emphasize his misstatement of the law and to impress it more perfectly upon the minds of his hearers. We regret to be forced to the conclusion that so fair-minded a man as Mr. Oberly may allow his zeal for his party to overrule his natural love of truth.

The reason why the Democratic party is so unanimously opposed to all laws calculated to guard the sanctity of the ballot box will form the basis of a subsequent article.

Mr. OBERLY did not say anything about that bogus opinion of Judge Swayne, but he did the next best thing—he misquoted the election law, and based the main point of his speech upon the misquotation.

Results of Democratic Rule.
From the New York Tribune.

The letter given below answers a question which is frequently asked of Treasury officials, and states facts which it is useful to keep in mind. The transactions referred to were the last of their kind under Democratic rule, and serve forcibly to illustrate the financial extremity to which a series of Democratic administrations brought the government:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, July 20, 1860.—To the Hon. Edward McPherson, Washington: Sir.—In reply to your verbal inquiry I have to state that United States bonds of the loan of February 8, 1861, were sold in the amount of $18,415,000 at an aggregate discount of $2,019,770 10, or at an average price per $100, $89.63. This loan falls due on the 1st of January next, but of the amount issued $2,558,000 have already been purchased at a small premium for the sinking fund. About the same time of the issue of this loan, Treasury notes authorized by the act of December 17, 1860, were issued in the amount of $10,010,000, redeemable at the expiration of one year, of which $4,840,000 bore interest at 12 per cent per annum, and only $454,700 bore a lower rate of interest than 10 per cent. These notes have since been redeemed at par.

Very respectfully,
J. K. UPTON, Assistant Secretary.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The rooms of the republican state committee are now open at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and callers from the ranks of republican workers have begun to pay their visits. It was not the intention of the committee to open its rooms until August, but the pressure of correspondence from various parts of the state made it advisable to begin work somewhat earlier. The secretary of the committee states that already more than three hundred Garfield and Arthur campaign clubs have been formed in the state. The clubs are ready for the fight and anxious for it to begin. They are calling for documents, and the committee will begin in a day or two the work of distributing the campaign material. Reports from several of the Assembly districts in this city indicate that there will be a largely increased republican vote this fall.

The state executive committee has ordered for distribution 100,000 copies of Secretary Schurz's recent speech at Indianapolis, 50,000 of which will be printed in German.

General A. Warner, of Pomfret, Conn., is in town for a few days. He gives a glowing account of the political situation in Connecticut. The republicans of that state are in accord, and there is no dissatisfaction with the Chicago platform and the nominations.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Dr. Tanner attributed Thursday's sickness largely to the use of water, and resolved to become abstemious in the matter of water as well as food. His only stimulus—his rod upon which he has leaned—seemed to have failed him this morning, when he was taken sick again. It was just after his return from his morning drive. Soon after reaching the ball, he said: "I feel a terrible heat in my stomach. I am very thirsty, and yet I feel nausea. This burning is dreadful." The physicians decided that the burning was caused by regurgitation of wind and bile. As the Doctor complained of thirst he was given some water. He tried to drink it, but was unable to. "It makes me feel worse," he said, seeming to realize that even water had lost its helpful power. Then one of the eclectic watchmen suggested that Dr. Tanner should drink hot water, as hot as could be taken without scalding. This was designed, it was said, to stimulate the gastric follicles of the stomach. Dr. Tanner assented, and when the hot water was procured he drank about two mouthfuls; then he went immediately to his cot and lay down without removing his clothing, being covered with blankets. This morning's drive was varied by a visit to the Roman Catholic Cathedral, which the party visited about 7 a. m. to hear part of the morning mass and examine the interior of the building. After writing an acknowledgment of the use of a pair of scales, which will soon probably be conspicuously placarded in the streets, the Doctor finding himself sick, took to his bed and refused to be comforted. Waking, he read the mail. He fell asleep again. When he was once more awake about 10 a. m., he talked a little, but seemed in anything but a cheerful frame of mind.

Much of the time he sat gloomily holding his head on his hands, apparently busy with his own thoughts. Toward noon he became a little brighter, and conversed with several visitors, after which he again fell asleep. At 2 p. m. his pulse was 76 and his temperature 98.5. The dynamometer indicated a pressure of 77 kilogrammes with both hands. The sphygmographic tracings were weak, but slightly more regular than yesterday. For the greater part of the afternoon the doctor lay on his back in his cot by the window, his eyes closed, quietly dozing. About 6 he raised himself in his cot and read his mail, making a number of sarcastic comments. His pulse was 74. Then the Doctor walked down stairs, and putting on his light duster that he wears upon the scales, was weighed. "I'll weigh less to-night," said he, as he stepped on the scales, "for I have been drinking less water to-day." His weight was found to be 130 $\frac{1}{2}$  pounds, a loss of one pound since yesterday. In the evening the Doctor took his usual drive, returning shortly after 8 o'clock. On his return he was irritable, but otherwise his condition was good. Medical men are more cautious than formerly in expressing opinions, but while they seem afraid to say so, they look for Tanner's failure at any time. Dr. Miller said to-night: "I have any ideas in regard to the Doctor more on my private chemical analysis than anything else. I have found that for the last few days the waste of poisonous matter from the system has been steadily decreasing, hence this poison must be accumulating in the body and will inevitably lead to blood poisoning."

We have no odds and ends or remnants of old stock to dispose of. We do, however, offer a very superior line of the above enumerated goods—in fact almost an unbroken stock—at and below cost. CHICAGO, July 24.—The Republicans opened their campaign in this city to-night with a mass meeting in Market Square, where a large stand, lighted with electric lights, was erected. The crowd in attendance was estimated as high as 25,000, the open space about the stand being densely packed. The Union Veterans paraded the streets before the meeting, and were a prominent part of the gathering. They turned out to the number of 1,000, the total number being 1,200. The utmost enthusiasm was manifested throughout the proceedings. Among the speakers of the evening were General N. P. Banks, of Massachusetts, General John A. Logan, Governor Cullom, Colonel Clark E. Carr, of Galesburg, Hon. John M. Hamilton of Bloomington, and James McCartney, candidate for Attorney General. The meeting

REGARDING to the late colored state convention, held at Springfield, the Mattoon Gazette makes the following allusion to "Dr." G. P. Miller, a celebrated colored character, residing at Mattoon. He used to live in Decatur, and besides boasting a garden patch somewhere north of the city, he used to put on considerable portion of his time talking big among his people, until at last, finding that he was not appreciated, he bundled up and left the town in disgust. The Gazette says:

Austin Perry, Rev. S. Hutchinson and Dr. G. P. Miller, of this city, attended the convention of colored men at Springfield on Tuesday last. In the organization of the committee, Austin Perry was assigned a place on credentials, Rev. Hutchinson, on permanent organization and Dr. Miller on rules. The committee on credentials did not report Dr. Miller's name as a delegate, and he rose to a personal inquiry which led to a discussion as to the doctor's politics, and on coming to a vote on the question, he was not admitted on account of an entire want of reliability as a republican. Afterwards he sought an opportunity to get off a speech that he had prepared, but the convention declined to hear him. We learn that he came home very indignant. The fact that the convention sat down on him in just the way it did, commands it to our good opinion. If there is a lazy, worthless old fraud in Coley county, it is that same doctor. He believes he is cumping, any way wise enough to live by his wits, which results in his being principally supported by two faithful and industrious women, who may be seen delving in the garden almost any morning, while "old wisdom" holds up the gate post and smokes.

DECATUR's favorite running horse, Volto, we regret to learn, is out of training, in consequence of a rupture of the sheathing of the middle tendon of his near fore leg. The Globe-Democrat states that Volto will be sent to his home at Decatur, but he has not yet arrived.

HARRY LUNN's brick work on the addition to the Wabash round-house is nearly completed, and the roof will soon be put on. The round house, now has the appearance of a half moon, and is quite an imposing structure.

Oberly's Sermon.

The Hon. John H. Oberly, democratic nominee for secretary of state, and at the present writing holding a fat office as member of the Railway and Warehouse Commission under Gov. Cullou, delivered a democratic speech at the court house on Saturday afternoon to a crowd of about 300 people, among whom were many Republicans, who were in attendance simply out of curiosity to see the gentleman and hear his remarks. Mr. Oberly consumed about one hour and twenty minutes in his delivery, reading his sermon from manuscript. He didn't seem to have his address very well committed, as he had to stop quite frequently to make connections. It was a very tame effort, winning but little applause, and proving a disappointment in many respects to the moshacks, who had expected a regular knock-down argument in favor of the proposed and hoped-for copperhead-confederate administration, under the leadership of the regular army general. For more extended comments on Mr. Oberly's effort see second page. Judge Nelson was the chairman of the meeting.

A Bowing Meeting.

The Wheatland Garfield and Arthur club held a rousing and enthusiastic political meeting on the depot platform at Elwin, on Saturday night, there being about 100 Republicans of the township in attendance. President Stickel presided. The first speaker was E. P. Vall, who severely criticised Oberly's speech at the court house on Saturday afternoon. He consumed about one hour, and made a strong argument in favor of continuing the Republican party in power. Albert T. Summers made a neat 15 minute speech, calling forth much applause. Next came a speech by Henry W. Davis, followed by E. S. McDonald and Martin Forstmyer. Martin said he wasn't there to talk politics, but he was as good a Republican as anybody, and he wanted it understood that he was for Forstmyer "first, last, and forever!" The meeting closed with a very pointed speech by K. H. Roby, who stated in substance that the people of this country were not yet quite ready to be governed by a class of people who tried to destroy the government, and that the intelligence, industry and progress of the United States were largely confined to the North, where there are six men to one in the South who can read and write. After Mr. Roby's remarks, the crowd gave three rousing cheers for Garfield and Arthur, and the meeting then adjourned. The Wheatland primary meeting will be held at Elwin, on Saturday, July 31st, at 7:30 o'clock.

Another Newspaper Charge.

On Saturday last Mr. C. N. Walls, the owner of the office, took possession of the Decatur Saturday Herald, Rowell & Addis retiring from further management of the establishment after an experience of about six months. Mr. Walls will continue the publication of the Herald. We extend to him a fraternal welcome, and wish him a prosperous career. Col. Rowell, during his brief newspaper career in Decatur has shown himself to be a fine writer and an enthusiastic Republican. We sincerely trust that whatever he may find to do, here or elsewhere, will bring to him the prosperity he so well deserves.

MARRIAGE.

In this city, on Sunday, July 25, 1880, by A. W. Palmer, J. P. Mu. John M. Hosseron and Miss GABRIELLA ADDIS, both of Decatur.

THEKRE was a good turnout at the temperance meeting held at the tabernacle Saturday night. Splendid addresses were made by Revs. Woodward and Kendrick, and Miss Armentrout delivered an appropriate recitation. The meeting was one of much profit. One drinking man signed the pledge.

Grand Ball and Festival.

DURING the present season over 2,000 new cars have been added to the rolling stock supply of the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific Company. It would take 5,000 additional cars to supply the present demand. From all along the line comes the cry, "Give us more cars, give us more cars,"

REFRESHMENTS will be served at reasonable rates. No pains will be spared to make this affair one of the most successful of the season, and old and young are cordially invited to participate in the festivities of the occasion—not forgetting to patronize the splendid dinner to be served on Saturday, commencing promptly at 12 o'clock and continuing several hours.

Admission to the festival on each evening, 10 cents.

The Wabash mail train for the East.

No. 3—left here at 4 a.m., did not arrive until nearly 10 o'clock this forenoon. A smash up on the east end of the line was the probable cause of the delay, though nothing reliable can be learned from the employees here. They are always mum with reference to railway accidents.

HATFIELD, TAYLOR &amp; CO.

This morning transferred their interest in their large grain elevator, three lots and a ten acre tract of land, at Blue Mound, to William Ellis and Wm. Williams, who will take full possession on Monday, Aug. 2d. The consideration was $7,100.
